PLAINTIFF SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION'S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANTS'
MOTION FOR STAY OF ORDER
PENDING APPEAL

Date: November 15, 2013
Time: 1:30 p.m.
Ctrm.: 2D
Judge: Hon. Gonzalo P. Curiel

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 With their motion, defendants seek to stay just one piece of the Court's 3 August 16, 2013 Order (Dkt. No. 470) ("August 16 Order") pending defendants' 4 appeal of that ruling. In that order, the Court ordered that the general partnerships 5 ("GPs") managed by Defendant Western Financial Planning ("Western") be 6 released from the receivership estate and that Western's equity interests in those 7 GPs be liquidated. See Dkt. No. 470, pp. 25-26. Defendants Louis Schooler and 8 Western have now appealed that order, but they only challenge one aspect of the 9 Court's ruling—the part requiring Western to liquidate its GP interests. They now 10 ask the Court to stay only that part of the ruling, as if the release of the GPs and the 11 liquidation of Western's interests are completely unrelated.

12 Plaintiff Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") does not oppose a 13 stay in principle, but strongly opposes one that is limited in the way defendants 14 propose. If there is a stay, it should stay both the liquidation of Western's GP 15 interests and the release of the GPs from the receivership. By asking for a more 16 limited stay, defendants are essentially cherry-picking that part of the August 16 17 Order they liked—the release of the GPs—so they can contest the part they 18 oppose—the liquidation of Western's interests. But the Court's order liquidating 19 Western's equity interests and releasing the GPs was not intended to be carried out 20 piecemeal. You cannot have one without the other. In fact, the Court specifically 21 held that the liquidation of Western's interests was a pre-condition to the release of 22 the GPs from the receivership "to ensure that Western will have no future 23 responsibility for any liability incurred by the GPs." Dkt. No. 470, p. 26.

24 Not only is the scope of the stay proposed by defendants too limited, their 25 motion has failed to satisfy the requirements under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 62(c) for obtaining such a stay. First, defendants have not made a strong showing 27 that they are likely to succeed on the merits. They completely ignore the core 28 factual and legal issues identified by the Court in the August 16 Order. Second,

1 defendants present no evidence whatsoever that either of them will suffer 2 irreparable harm. In fact, Western will receive compensation for the liquidation.
3 The only harm defendants identify is related to a purported $11 million valuation 4 of the GP interests. But that number is unsupported and nothing more than an 5 imagined number; it is insufficient to support a claim of irreparable harm. Finally, 6 the receivership estate and the investors will be harmed if a stay is issued. Staying 7 the liquidation but releasing the GPs would leave the receivership estate joint and 8 severally liable for the debts and liabilities of the GPs without the benefit of the 9 equity held by Western. This would unnecessarily dissipate the receivership estate.

10 II. ARGUMENT

11 A. The Stay Proposed By Defendants Is Too Limited

12 Defendants have asked the Court to stay part of its August 16 Order while 13 they appeal another part of that ruling. They want to have their cake and eat it too.
14 However, if a stay is imposed, it should not be as limited as defendants request.
15 Instead, a stay, if issued, should stay both the release of the GPs and the liquidation 16 of Western's interests.

17 The liquidation of Western's interests and the release of the GPs are inter-18 related. In granting defendants' motion to modify the preliminary injunction, the 19 Court stated that "[t]here are certain conditions the Court finds equitable to impose 20 in connection with releasing the GPs from the receivership." Dkt. No. 470, p. 25.
21 For one, the Court required a pro rata reduction of Western's GP interests based 22 on the properties' current fair market value. See id, pp. 25-26. The Court stated 23 that "[b]efore the GPs are released from the receivership, all of Western's equity 24 interests in the GPs shall be liquidated." Id., p. 26 (emphasis added). The Court 25 imposed this condition because it wanted "to ensure that Western will have no 26 future responsibility for any liability incurred by the GPs." Id. Moreover, as the 27 Court also noted, "given the enormous disparity between the purchase prices of the 28 GP properties and the funds Western raised from the GPs, the Court finds it

1 equitable to preclude Western from receiving a share of the proceeds received from 2 any future sale of GP properties.” Id.

3 The limited stay proposed by the defendants conflicts directly with the 4 August 16 Order. Defendants only seek to stay one provision of that Order—the 5 liquidation of Western’s GP interests. In doing so, the defendants ask the Court to 6 ignore a condition required for the release of the GPs and impose only the relief 7 that defendants like. In effect, they are cherry-picking. The Court should stay both 8 the liquidation of Western’s GP interests and the release of the GPs to ensure that 9 the relief it ordered is carried out in the manner that it intended.¹

10 Moreover, a stay of the release of the GPs and the liquidation of Western’s 11 GP interests would preserve the status quo. The Court did not appear to envision a 12 situation where Western would continue to hold GP interests after the release of 13 the GPs. Giving effect to certain provisions of the August 16 Order while staying 14 others does not preserve the status quo. A stay that covers both the release of the 15 GPs and the liquidation of Western’s interests is the only way to preserve the 16 status quo while this case is heard on appeal.²

17 B. Defendants Have Failed To Satisfy The Requirements Of Rule
18 62(c) To Justify A Stay Of The Liquidation Of Western’s Interests

19 Defendants do not just seek a stay that is too limited in scope. They also 20 have failed to satisfy the requirements of Rule 62(c). If the Court is not inclined to 21 stay the liquidation of Western’s GP interests and the release of the GPs from the 22 receivership, then it should deny defendants’ motion to stay only the liquidation.
23

25 ¹ If the Court does stay the release of the GPs, then the Court should also stay the 26 distribution of the investor packets so that they are distributed in conjunction with the release of the GPs.

27 ² The SEC recently informed the Ninth Circuit that counsel for the SEC is 28 considering whether to recommend a cross-appeal in connection with the August 16 Order. See Exhibit 1, attached hereto.

1 A court must consider four factors in determining whether to issue a stay 2 pending appeal pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 62(c): “(1) whether 3 the stay applicant has made a strong showing that he is likely to succeed on the 4 merits; (2) whether the applicant will be irreparably injured absent a stay; (3) 5 whether issuance of the stay will substantially injure the other parties interested in 6 the proceeding; and (4) where the public interest lies.” Hilton v. Braunskill, 481 7 U.S. 770, 776 (1987); see also FED. R. CIV. P. 62(c). The standard for a stay 8 pursuant to Rule 62(c) is similar to the standard for a preliminary injunction. See 9 Lopez v. Heckler, 713 F.2d 1432, 1435 (9th Cir. 1983). Therefore, a court should 10 apply the Ninth Circuit’s “sliding scale” approach to preliminary injunctions in 11 evaluating a request for a stay pending appeal. See Conservation Congress v. U.S.
12 Forest Service, 803 F. Supp. 2d 1126, 1129 (E.D. Cal. 2011). Under the current 13 formulation of this approach, “the elements of the preliminary injunction are 14 balanced, so that a stronger showing of one element may offset a weaker showing 15 of another. For example, a stronger showing of irreparable harm to plaintiff might 16 offset a lesser showing of likelihood of success on the merits.”³ Alliance for the 17 Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 F.3d 1127, 1131 (9th Cir. 2011) (citing Clear 18 Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles, 340 F.3d 810, 813 (9th Cir. 2003).

19 Because defendants fail to make the requisite showing under Rule 62(c), and 20 an application of the Ninth Circuit’s balancing approach does not favor defendants, 21 a stay of the liquidation is not warranted. Therefore, the SEC asks that the Court 22 deny defendants’ motion for stay of the liquidation of Western’s GP interests.

25 ³ The Ninth Circuit has also adopted a version of the “sliding scale” approach, 26 where a preliminary injunction can issue when the likelihood of success is such 27 that “serious questions going to the merits were raised and the balance of 28 hardships tips sharply in the [plaintiff’s] favor.” Alliance for the Wild Rockies, 632 F.3d at 1131. Although defendants make a passing reference to this standard (Def. Mot. at 3:8-10), they do not identify any “serious questions” at issue here and only argue the standard cited above.

1 1. Defendants are not likely to succeed on the merits

2 Defendants have failed to establish the first prong for a stay under Rule 3 62(c)—a likelihood of success on the merits of their appeal—because their motion 4 utterly fails to address the issues cited by the Court in ordering the release of the 5 GPs and the liquidation of Western’s GP interests. To demonstrate a likelihood of 6 success on the merits, defendants must show, at a minimum, that they have a 7 “substantial case” for relief on the merits. Leiva-Perez v. Holder, 640 F.3d 962, 8 968 (9th Cir. 2011). But defendants cannot do so.

9 The August 16 Order and the Court’s September 19, 2013 order denying 10 defendants’ motion for reconsideration (“September 19 Order”) set forth the 11 factual and legal basis for its order to liquidate Western’s GP interests. See Dkt.
12 No. 494. Specifically, the August 16 Order states that the liquidation of Western’s 13 GP interests ensures that Western would not be responsible for any GP liabilities in 14 the future. See Dkt. No. 470, p. 26. The September 19 Order later stated that the 15 Court had broad powers to administer, retrieve, and dispose of assets belonging to 16 the receivership. See Dkt. No. 494, p. 4 (citing SEC v. Ross, 504 F.3d 1130, 1145 17 (9th Cir. 2007)). The Court also stated that “the power of sale is within the scope of 18 a Receiver’s ‘complete control’ over receivership assets.” Id., p. 5 (citing SEC v.
19 Am. Capital Invs., Inc., 98 F.3d 1133, 1144 (9th Cir. 1996)). The Court’s decisions 20 supervising a receivership are reviewed for abuse of discretion. See id. (citing SEC 21 v. Capital Consultants, LLC, 397 F.3d 733, 738 (9th Cir. 2005)). In exercising its 22 broad authority, the Court also explained that it sought the most equitable way to 23 remove the GPs from the receivership estate in a way that would ensure the GPs’ 24 actual independence and protect the remaining receivership estate from any risk of 25 liability incurred by the GPs. See id.

26 Defendants’ motion for stay is silent on all of these issues. In discussing 27 their claimed likelihood of success on the merits, defendants completely ignore the 28 Court’s basis and reasoning for liquidating Western’s GP interests. This silence on 1 the core legal issues undermines their assertion that they have presented a 2 “substantial case” for relief. As a result, defendants cannot meet their burden to 3 show that they are likely to succeed on the merits.

4 Rather than confront the basis for the Court’s liquidation order, defendants 5 instead choose to recite, nearly verbatim, the arguments they raised in connection 6 with their denied motion for reconsideration.⁴ Compare Def. Mot. (Dkt. No. 495-7 1) at 4-5 with Def. Mot. for Recon. (Dkt No. 474-1) at 3-5. Defendants argue that 8 the liquidation of Western’s claimed, but unsupported, $11 million interest in the 9 GPs violates Western’s due process rights. See Def. Mot. at 3. Defendants also 10 challenge the liquidation because no final judgment of liability has been entered.
11 See id. at 4. Defendants further argue that the liquidation of Western’s GP 12 interests would jeopardize the status quo. See id. And defendants argue that the 13 disparity in what Western paid and what the GPs paid for the real property is an 14 insufficient reason for liquidating Western’s GP interests. See id. at 5.

15 The Court found each of these arguments unconvincing when it denied the 16 defendants’ motion for reconsideration, and concluded that it “is not left with a 17 ‘definite and firm conviction that a mistake has been committed’” or that “its 18 decision was manifestly unjust.” Dkt No. 494, p. 6. By rehashing the same 19 arguments again, defendants cannot establish a likelihood of success on the merits.
20 See SEC v. Bilzerian, 641 F. Supp. 2d 16, 17 (D.D.C 2009) (finding that defendant 21 failed to establish likelihood of success where, in motion to stay pending appeal, he 22 “merely rehashes meritless arguments that were rejected” by the court).

23 2. Defendants are not likely to suffer irreparable harm

24 Defendants have also failed to meet the second prong under Rule 62(c). For 25 this prong, they must show that irreparable injury is likely in the absence of a stay.
26

27 _____
28 ⁴ Indeed, 12 of the 18 cases cited in the table of authorities for the defendants’ motion to stay were also cited in their motion for reconsideration.

1 See Leiva-Perez, 640 F.3d at 968. Defendants’ burden on this prong is higher than 2 the likelihood of success prong because they must show that irreparable injury is 3 the more likely or probable outcome if a stay is not issued. See id.

4 Here, defendants fail to meet their burden. Defendants do not even attempt 5 to argue that Schooler will be harmed if the stay is not granted. As for Western, 6 the August 16 Order liquidating Western’s GP interests ensures that it will be paid 7 in cash if its interests are liquidated. The Court ordered Western’s GP interests to 8 be reduced on a pro rata basis according to the properties’ current fair market 9 value, as evidenced by the property appraisals obtained by the Receiver. See Dkt 10 No. 470, pp. 25-26. Western will be paid for its interests in a fair manner and 11 therefore would not be irreparably harmed if a stay is not issued. Therefore, 12 neither Western nor Schooler can show that it will suffer any irreparable harm.

13 Defendants’ sole claim of irreparable harm is their repeated but unsupported 14 claim that Western’s GP interests are worth $11 million. See Def. Mot. at 7.
15 Defendants previously argued this $11 million valuation in its motion for 16 reconsideration. See Dkt No. 474-1, p. 4. But in the September 19 Order, the 17 Court stated that defendants “provide no support for their contention that their 18 interests in the GPs amount to $11 million.” Dkt. No. 494, p. 5. With their current 19 motion, the defendants had yet another opportunity to present the Court with 20 evidence of this supposed $11 million valuation, but they again offered nothing 21 more than a conclusory assertion. See Dkt No. 495-1, p. 7. So, while they argue 22 that they will be “harmed” due to a “massive deprivation of property interests,” 23 that claim is illusory. In reality, there is no real harm because Western will receive 24 fair market value for its interests.

25 3. A stay would harm the receivership estate and investors

26 The defendants have also failed to meet their burden to demonstrate that 27 issuance of the stay will not substantially injure other parties interested in this 28 action. Defendants claim that “[n]either the SEC nor the Receiver would suffer

1 any injury.” Def. Mot. at 8. But that misses the point. The key here is not the 2 SEC. Rather, it is the harm that will befall the receivership estate and investors.

3 That harm is real. As discussed more fully in the Receiver’s response to the 4 defendants’ motion for stay, the receivership estate and those with claims to 5 recover from the estate will be substantially harmed if the Court issues a stay 6 pending the defendants’ appeal. See Dkt. No. 509, pp. 1-2. The GPs’ ability to 7 raise funds and avoid defaults and foreclosures is unknown. If the liquidation of 8 Western’s GP interests is stayed, Western would remain liable for the GPs’ 9 liabilities in the event they cannot successfully raise more funds. Western’s 10 remaining assets should not be consumed by covering investor shortfalls to avoid 11 the impairment or loss of property interests.⁵

12 A stay of just the liquidation, therefore, would not only harm investors and 13 the estate, it would also seem to contradict the intentions of the Court. In its 14 September 19 Order, the Court stated that “each interest holder in a general 15 partnership is jointly and severally liable for the debts and liabilities of the general 16 partnership.” See Dkt No. 494, pp. 5-6. In supporting its decision to liquidate 17 Western’s GP interests, the Court stated that it did so in part to protect the 18 remaining receivership estate from any future risk of liability incurred by the GPs.⁶

21 ⁵ Defendants have argued that the stay would not harm the Receiver because he has 22 filed suit against three businesses to recover money loaned to them by Western.
23 See Def. Mot. at 8. Presumably defendants are arguing that any recovery in these 24 actions could be used to operate Western, compensate investors and pay the Receiver’s fees. However, whether the Receiver will actually receive any recovery is purely speculative at this point.

25 ⁶ Defendants have argued that they can only recoup their costs and make a profit by 26 holding on to the GP interests. See Def. Mot. at 7. In support, defendants claim 27 to have raised $80.2 million from investors, while spending $95.8 million in 28 expenses, giving the appearance that defendants have lost money on these deals.
However, the “expenses” include approximately $20 million paid to Schooler in salary. See Dkt. No. 504, p.1.

1 See id.; see also Dkt. No. 470, p. 26 . A stay pending appeal would mean that 2 Western, and thus the receivership estate, would remain jointly and severally liable 3 for the debts and liabilities of the general partnerships. Such a result would harm 4 the Receiver and investors.

5 4. The public interest does not favor a stay

6 Finally, the public interest of protecting and preserving Western’s assets for 7 investors and others who may have a claim against the estate does not weigh in 8 favor of granting a stay of the liquidation. The Court expressly recognized this 9 interest in the September 19 Order. It stated that the “primary purpose of equity 10 receiverships is to promote the orderly administration of the estate by the district 11 court for the benefit of creditors.” Dkt. No. 494, p. 4 (citing SEC v. Hardy, 803 12 F.2d. 1034, 1038 (9th Cir. 1986). As discussed above, issuing a stay over the 13 liquidation would expose Western to joint and several liability for the debts and 14 liabilities of the general partnership, a result that would undermine the public 15 interest of protecting the receivership estate.

16 III. CONCLUSION

17 For the foregoing reasons, the SEC respectfully requests (a) that if the Court 18 issues a stay, then the stay should stay both the liquidation of Western’s GP 19 interests and the release of the GPs, or (b) that the Court otherwise deny 20 defendants’ Motion for Stay Pending Appeal.

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION,

Plaintiff-Appellee,

v.

LOUIS V. SCHOOLER and FIRST FINANCIAL PLANNING CORPORATION d/b/a Western Financial Planning Corporation,

Defendants-Appellants,

THOMAS C. HEBRANK,

Receiver-Appellee.

No. 13-56761

MOTION OF THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION TO VACATE THE BRIEFING SCHEDULE

The Securities and Exchange Commission (“Commission”) hereby moves to vacate the briefing schedule set forth in this Court’s order dated October 10, 2013, because under that schedule appellants’ opening brief is due 13 days before the Commission’s time to appeal expires.

The Commission’s time to file a cross-appeal does not expire until November 18, 2013. The notice of appeal stated that the order being appealed was the district court's order dated August 16, 2013 (Docket Entry No. 470).¹ On August 28, 2013, appellants filed a motion for partial reconsideration of the August 16 order, in which they sought relief under Rules 59(e) and 60(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (Docket Entry No. 474), thereby staying the time for both parties to appeal, see Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(A). The district court denied the motion for reconsideration by order dated September 19, 2013 (Docket Entry No. 494). The deadline for the Commission to file a cross-appeal therefore falls 60 days after September 19, i.e., on November 18, 2013. See Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(1)(B).

The Commission is a federal agency whose five members would have to vote to authorize the filing of any cross-appeal. Counsel for the Commission are currently considering whether to recommend a cross-appeal. Under the current briefing schedule, appellants' opening brief is due not later than November 5, 2013, which is 13 days before the Commission's time to appeal expires. Therefore, to conserve resources and avoid duplication of briefing, the briefing schedule in the instant appeal should be vacated pending the Commission's decision whether to file a cross-appeal.

For the same reasons, counsel for the Commission are unable at this time to assess the appropriateness of the case for settlement discussions or mediation, as directed in this Court's order dated October 16, 2013. Concurrent with the present motion, counsel for the Commission are sending the Circuit Mediator a letter to this effect.

The undersigned counsel contacted counsel for appellants earlier today, but they were unable to state their position on the present motion prior to the close of business today (Eastern Time).

For the foregoing reasons, the briefing schedule should be vacated.
